Have you ever wondered why the necessity of manners or amenities or politeness, even when it smacks of hypocrisy? Everybody does, but then. . .

Have you ever seen sparks fly from the wheels of a train going by? Fire sometime results and the flaming wheel or wheels freeze, ultimately endangering the whole train. Why? No lubrication.

Why be polite? Ever try anything and see it succeed by bulldozing everything? Maybe a little leverage sometime, but what a little finesse will do. Sincere finesse, that is. Like the ad says, "try it; you'll like it", in such cases, the results.

Dallas Symphony has presented a record of two of the major types of music they play: Anshel Brusilow's Dallasound, a creation of modern work played by symphony, and a recording under the previous director, Johanos, of two works by the Russian composer, Scirabin.

They will go to Cameron Public Library, whose collection of records is another service offered there.

Hopefully, the DSO will bring some Dallasound to Cameron in another concert and some of the more diverse composers beyond the great names we heard here in January.

This is a suitable time, again, to thank those hardy people who believed in that effort enough to bring along the hundreds who made it possible by attendance and the approximate 1700 students who heard the afternoon performances.

A lot of people prefer other kinds of music, but many have now a better understanding of what the classics and symphonies are about. And comment on the sound and effect is much more than expected, much to the delight of this columnist, and those few, those very few who believed and worked all the way so it could be brought off.

Council Hears Request For Street Paving

The city council Tuesday evening heard a delegation who asked paving of N. Central from 12th to 15th and noted rules for seating councilmen.

The delegation was told to collect money for the paving for inclusion in the city's paving program.

Mayor E. A. Perrin pointed out that the city charter states that no one who is indebted to the city can be seated as councilman.

In other business, the council moved to extend sewer line to the northwest end of town, contingent on three users connecting. City Atty. Ed Magre also told the council that a schedule of fines for speeding has been drawn up: $20 minimum and up to 15 miles over the limit. After that one dollar a mile is added to the $20.

Sheriff, Police Report Breakins

The Milam County Sheriff's Department is investigating two breakins at Milano homes last Wednesday.

An adding machine and a coin collection were taken from the George Davis home and an antique clock, gun and two boxes of tools were taken from the Lonnie Smith home.

Sheriff Carl Black said most of the items have been sold in Houston and the department is attempting to get them back.

The city police have arrested four men and charged them with the burglary of several cases of beer from Elmo's Place.

The place was broken into about 9 p.m. Saturday through a window.

Arrested were C. D. Brown, James Brown, Jim Brown, and Golden Brown, according to Police Chief Felipe Martinez.

Price Commission Freezes Rate Hike

The Price Commission last week froze for 30 days rate increases requested by utility companies in the U.S., including a 6 percent general rate increase sought by Texas Power & Light Company.

Henry Siebman, local TP&L manager, said TP&L will await the decision of the Price Commission.

At present, the Company has received final rate increase approval from 221 cities. However, TP&L has not put the increased rates in effect and did not plan to do so until after the Price Commission reviewed the request.

STUDENT PROJECT MODEL is discussed by San Antonio teacher Kenneth Vande Walle and Miss Mary Belle Batte, Cameron 7th grade history teacher. Vande Walle was an observer Tuesday of the Texas History classes in Cameron which are being used as a model for programs in other Texas schools. The progrwm directed by Miss Batte brings history to life with the use of modern electronic equipment and visual reports such as the student made mission model.

Local Woman Certified For Gun Instruction

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's new Voluntary Hunter Safety Training program posted a "first" this week when certification was granted a female instructor.

Mrs. Jack W. Tumlinson of Cameron is the only woman among the hundreds of new volunteer instructors certified in recent weeks by the department and the National Rifle Association (NRA).

T. D. Carroll, who is heading the new program, said qualified women are welcome to apply for instructor's positions. "We have had several inquiries up to now from women, but Mrs. Tumlinson was the only one over 21," Carroll said.

Mrs. Tumlinson apparently is highly qualified for the job, Carroll said, since she is experienced in small game hunting, target shooting, horseback riding, hiking and has taught for the Girl Scouts, Red Cross and Sunday school.

Persons -- male or female -- wishing to apply for instructor positions in the program are asked to contact their local game management officer for details.

The program is for boys 11 through 16 and teaches proper gun handling, safety, conservation, and regard for landowners.

Felix Matula Jr. of Cameron is also a certified instructor and is teaching a class now. Another class will be organized in a few weeks.

Fuchs Won't Run

City Councilman Monroe Fuchs has announced that he will not be a candidate for re-election to the city council this April. Fuchs said the press of business makes it impossible for him to give full attention to the councilman post.

County Votes Funds For Minerva FD

County Commissioners voted $1,000 to the Minerva Fire Department and appointed three Milam County men to area boards at a regular meeting Monday morning.

E. A. Perrin, Cameron mayor, and W. P. Hogan, president of the Rockdale Independent School District, were appointed to represent Milam County on the executive board of Central Texas Council of Governments. The county joined CTCOG two weeks ago at a cost of $1,201.68 based on a county population of 20,-028.

Also appointed to an area board was Harold Staffelback of Rockdale who will serve on the Bell County Council on Alcoholism board of directors.

Commissioners voted unanimously to contribute the $1,000 towards fire fighting equipment for the newly organized Minerva Volunteer Fire Dept. The Minerva group had previously purchased a fire truck from the Rockdale Fire Department.

In other business Commissioners accepted the Hefley Stedman Motor Co. bid of $8,396 for two trucks for Commissioners Pct. 1. Only other bid was for $9,135.38 submitted by Gaither Motor Co. of Rockdale.

Police Investigate Two Accidents

Cameron police investigated two accidents over the weekend in the city, but no serious injuries were reported.

A motorcycle-car accident occurred at 4:40 p.m. Saturday on West 4th St. in front of Ritters Service Station. A motorcycle driven by Ronald Gelner of Houston went out of control when it attempted to avoid a collision with a car that pulled on to the highway from a side street.

Gelner was taken to St. Edward Hospital where he was treated for slight injuries and released.

Mike Maddox of Hearne was slightly injured in an accident about 9:15 Sunday night. He was a passenger in a car driven by Leland Lyles of Temple. Lyles vehicle was in collision with a car driven by Elmo Manners of Cameron. No one else was injured.

Extensive front end damage was done to both cars.

The accident occurred on West 5th St. near the Dairy Queen parking lot.

Korean Nurses Come To City

Two young registered nurses from Seoul, Korea are making new friends as they begin work at Newton Memorial Hospital in Cameron. The job is familiar but the surroundings are brand new.

They are Choi Jung Mook, and Ho Soon Lee and they have been in the United States just a few short days. They came to the hospital as a result of the hospital's application for three nurses through the Korean Placement Foundation in New York City.

The third nurse will arrive in Cameron at a later date, according to Joe Harkleroad, hospital administrator.

When The Herald talked to the girls, most of the communication was through an interpreter, Mrs. Won Sil Hensley, from Fort Hood, another Korean whose husband is stationed there. Her services were obtained through Chaplain Silliman of Fort Hood, who teaches Mrs. Hensley in a Bible study group. Mrs. Hensley volunteered to come and help the girls through their first day at the hospital.

The two girls are living in an apartment in Cameron and have already visited one supermarket, which they described as "very comfortable."

They also had words of praise for the hospital and its staff, saying "Everybody is so nice to us."

Choi said she came from a big family, with four sisters and brothers. She attended the Kong Kih Nursing School and Ho Soon attended the Jin Ju Nursing school. She had three years nursing experience in Korea while Choi worked for the health department in Korea.

Harkleroad said this was the first time for such a venture for the hospital. The girls have a one-year, renewable contract.

"But they could get homesick and want to go back to Korea," Harkleroad said.

The way the girls are starting off, with friendliness and help from new friends, they will probably want to make Cameron their new home.

Women Live Longer, Professor Says

By Alec Hargreaves
Reuter Correspondent

PARIS

A Soviet professor has suggested that the best recipe for a longer - than - average life is: keep active, live in the country -- and be a woman.

More than three - quarters of the people aged 100 or more alive in the world today are women, if the Soviet Union can be regarded as typical.

The basic requirement if you want to outlive the rest of your generation, however, is a robust constitution.

These hints on longevity come from a recent article published here by leading expert on old age, Professor Dmitri Chebotarev, director of the Gerontology Institute of the Soviet Academy of Medicine.

If you are one of the 112,-000,000 people aged 70 or more alive in the world today, Professor Chebotarev may be able to explain why.

If you are looking for last -minute tips, he could also advise you how to become one of the 119,000,000 people that the United Nations predicts will be alive in that age group in 1975.

"As concerns the brain and muscles, it seems that the more -- and the more regularly -- they are used throughout a life-time, the less they age," he said.

Longevity is more common in rural areas, and particularly among people who have had uninterrupted physical activity from their earliest youth," Professor Chebotarev added.

His article on the development of gerontology -- the study of old age and its diseases -- was published by the Paris - based United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO).

To bakc up his conclusions the professor cited the examples of two Soviet citizens, 165 - year - old Shirali Mislimov and 130 - year - old Mrs. Lasuria Kofria. He said both of them were still working on the land as much as their strength allowed.

"As a general rule," he went on, "the very old have not suffered from serious or frequent illnesses. They are nearly all persons of basically sound health."

They are also mainly women. In the case of the Soviet Union, Professor Chebotarev said that at the time of writing 21,708 people were aged 100 or over, and of these more than three - quarters were women.

In developed countries, women can expect to live an average of between two and eight years longer than men.

On the other hand, the professor said, women who reach an advanced old age generally have poorer health than men of similar age.

Some researchers believe women tend to live longer than men because of biological differences between the sexes. Others regard the differences in the social activities of the sexes as the reason for the phenomenon.

But according to Professor Chebotarev, the secret of feminine longevity still eludes gerontologists, and so does the mystery of what fundamentally causes the aging process itself.

Building Stage Begins...

It looks, no, it is certain that downtown Cameron is reaching the rebuilding stage.

The myopic view of pure destruction is about ended and the optimistic view of new construction is beginning.

This is the phase that we have been anticipating. The years of planning are for restoration, not dismantling. It would have been quite simple to reduce that center block with carefully placed explosives detonated some early morning about 4. But buildings were not available that quickly or easily.

The mall, new streets, curbs, new building or new businesses in restored buildings will account for the largest change in this community since it was staked out in 1846.

It also cites Cameron for what it is: a small-town rebuilder of major proportions among the tens of thousands of small towns in this country.

Kicking and screaming, Cameron is, turning back the clock, against some considerable odds, to young maturity out of civic senescence.

Back To The Courts....

The Texas primaries are still unfunded after the Governor's proposal to finance them with state funds was termed unconstitutional and headed for the courts this week.

Atty-Gen. Crawford Martin said a 1916 State Supreme Court decision preventing financing of party primaries still stands. So it is back to the courts.

Meanwhile the parties are wringing their hands as to how they would pay for the primary elections, which are almost as expensive as the general election cost.

It may be that voters may have to drop a dollar in the ballot box so that expenses are paid to get the vote out for a count.

Or it may be that we just won't have primaries this year and everyone will have a wide open choice in the general election.

Whatever happens, this whole scenario says that things in this state should be updated, starting with a constitution about 100 years old, and as unrelated to the 1970s as these election changes are clear.

It is all quite confusing and disconcerting, particularly to those for holding primary elections.

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

VAT: LITTLE KNOWN NEW TAX PROPOSAL

REP. WILLIAM PROXMIRE (Wis.) ". . . The value-added tax -- VAT -- must be studied carefully. . .

"It is a hidden tax. It, therefore, invites big increases once it is in effect. . .

"I ask unanimous consent that the excellent editorial from the MILWAUKEE JOURNAL be printed in the Record. . ." (The condensed editorial follows.)

THE VALUE-ADDED TAX

Sen. Proxmire plans to turn the Joint Economic Committee loose on an in-depth examination of the value added tax (VAT.) This is needed. The public knows very little about this super sales tax, popular in Europe. And one day soon the public is liable to wake up and find that VAT is here.

Government expenditures consistently are outstripping revenue. The President last month promised to try to alleviate "the crushing burden of property taxes!" All this will cost more money and where is it coming from? Administration spokesmen have sent up trial balloons about VAT.

The beauty of VAT is that it is simple to administer and is, in a sense, hidden and thus rather painless. It is a tax on each new increment of value added to a product from the raw material to the store shelf. Everyone along the line pays a little.

There are some bad features underneath this outward sheen. One is that the ultimate payer of the tax is the consumer. It is a national sales tax that eats at low incomes in much greater proportions than it does high incomes. What is more, if instituted, it probably would not replace any tax but be just another layer on the present tax structure.

Ultimately, VAT may become a reality in the U.S. Before it does, the present progressive income tax structure should be tightened up. Billions now go uncollected because of loopholes and shelters in the tax laws. When these holes are plugged, and if the government can prove it still needs the revenue, then let's talk of VAT.

* * * * *

A GRASSROOTS COMMENT

Similar to the gasoline tax, a value-added tax would be easy to collect; it would also be easy to increase. For example, the public is seldom asked to vote on a gasoline tax increase. It's doubtful if the public will have an opportunity to vote on any future value-added tax increase.

Gasoline as a product costs less than it did 30 years ago. But, loaded with today's taxes it's no bargain. Being easy to increase, it is now proposed that a portion of the gasoline tax, or any increase, be used to support public transportation in metropolitan areas; airport construction might be next.

A study in depth of the value-added tax is in order. -J.C.

Financing Primaries Due Attorney General Opinion

By Bill Boykin

The complex question of financing May and June primary elections is heading for a final legal test.

Comptroller Robert S. Calvert asked Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin for an official opinion on Secretary of State Bob Bullock's plan to pay for the party primaries with state funds.

Bullock forced the issue to a head last week by handing Comptroller Calvert $73 worth of initial pre-primary bills and asking him to pay them.

Calvert balked and took the matter to Martin for advice.

"I will not pay anything out of the treasury for this unless I have written opinion from the attorney general or an order of the court," said Calvert. He added he does not think Martin will advise him to pay the bills submitted by Bullock.

"If the vouchers are, for some reason, not approved, I intend to place this question before the Texas Supreme Court at the earliest possible moment so that the entire matter of primary financing can be adequately, equitably and finally resolved," Bullock stated.

He moved with court authority to formulate rules for the primaries after a three-judge federal court January 20 struck down the filing fee law relied on to finance the spring elections. Gov. Preston Smith proposes to transfer to him more than $1 million for paying primary bills if the plan is finally cleared by legal authorities.

Rep. Rayford Price of Palestine accused Smith and Bullock of pre-empting prerogatives of the legislature, and said the governor should call an immediate special session to give lawmakers another whack at resolving the problem. Reps. Price Daniel Jr. of Liberty and Jim Nugent of Kerrville defended Smith and Bullock and charged Price was trying to further his House speakership campaign. Daniel and Nugent are also seeking the speakership.

PRIMARIES CROWDED

A total of 55 candidates for statewide office entered the Democratic primary before the February 7 filing deadline. There are contests for every office on the statewide ballot except four judicial places.

Republicans fielded only 10 state office candidates -- and seven of them are running for governor.

There are 10 Democratic candidates for governor, five for U. S. Senator, nine for lieutenant governor, three for attorney general, nine for comptroller, seven for treasurer, two for land commissioner, two for agriculture commissioner and four for railroad commissioner.

Republicans have only one candidate each for U. S. Senator (incumbent Sen. John Tower), treasurer and railroad commissioner.

Former Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough and Barefoot Sanders of Dallas are the leading Democratic candidates for senator. Governor Smith, Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, Dolph Briscoe of Uvalde and State Rep. Frances Farenthold of Corpus Christi will stir most of the action in the governor's race. Three state senators and a newspaper executive are battling for a runoff spot for lieutenant governor.

HOSPITAL FUNDS

Loan guarantees with interest subsidies totalling more than $23.8 million have been approved by the Texas Board of Health for 14 Hill-Burton hospital construction projects. Another $450,000 was set aside for the Ranger General Hospital pending completion of a feasibility study of its new building program.

Subsidies were approved for Texas Medical Center Laundry Co-op Association, Houston; Scott and White Memorial Hospital at Temple; Henderson Memorial Hospital; Eastland Memorial Hospital; Freestone County Hospital at Fairfield; Heart of Texas Memorial Hospital at Brady; Decatur Hospital Authority;

Marshall Memorial Hospital; Bailey County Hospital District at Muleshoe; Red River County Hospital at Clarksville; Nocona Hospital Authority; King's Daughters Hospital at Temple; Richards Memorial Hospital at Rockdale and St. Anthony Hospital at Amarillo.

Twenty - six other applications will be considered at a March meeting.

COURTS SPEAK

Texas Supreme Court ordered a district court trial of an Andrews property owner's suit to force his local school board to tax bank stocks.

The High Court also held a 57 - year - old woman who received a broken leg after being butted by a "petting zoo" goat cannot collect damages from Six Flags Over Texas.

The State Court of Criminal Appeals reversed convictions of three El Paso men for possessing obscene material (girlie magazines) for pupose of sale.

For the second time, the Court of Criminal Appeals reversed lower courts and ordered a new trial for a man arrested with a truck load (567) cases) of cigarettes which had no state tax stamps.

The Third Court of Civil Appeals ruled out a suit by parents of a blind boy who drowned at a school for the blind swimming pool against the institution.

PWC HEAD REPLACED

Governor Smith, in a surprise move, relieved Pearce Johnson of Austin of the Parks and Wildlife Commission chairmanship and appointed Jack Stones, Wells banker, to replace him.

At the same time, the governor designated Parks and Wildlife Department Executive Director James U. Cross to succeed Johnson as state-federal liaison in parks matters.

The action came soon after a federal circuit court of appeals threw out a lawsuit filed by Johnson to block purchase of Mustang Island property for a state park. However, Smith's office said the shuffle followed a policy of rotating chairmanships and had nothing to do with the prolonged Mustang Island wrangle.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editar:

It's not every day a man can think up an idea to eliminate 50 per cent of the world's pollution, which is why I intend to take off the balance of the week just to rest up from it.

Now here's the thing. Everybody agrees that most of the air pollution is caused by automobiles, and air pollution is pollution in its worst form. You can drive by a polluted river or an eyesore of a junk pile and survive, but if you can't get enough fresh air to breathe you're in for it.

All right. Look at the smog over any city in the world and you know it came mostly from automobile exhaust, and as hard as manufacturers may be trying, an exhaust - free car is not in sight yet.

The answer of course is an electric car, but before you sneer "Huh, what's new about that?" let me say I don't mean an electric car that operates off a truck and back seat full of batteries.

I mean an electric car that has electricity broadcast to it through the air.

If man can send a television picture in color from the moon to earth and can send a radio signal to a camera circling Mars and tell it when to turn on and off, why can't he figure out a way to send electricity from a tower to my car?

I know somebody's going to say, aw, electricity has to travel down a wire, you need a metal conductor. Won't work.

That's because people are hide-bound. They're talking about electricity that was invented 200 years ago and that they've been satisfied with ever since. It's amazing that electricity hasn't been improved on since it was first put in use.

What scientists ought to be working on is 20th century electricity, electricity you can broadcast through the air and turn the motors in the millions and millions of cars now pouring their gasoline fumes into the atmosphere. Just raise a small antenna in your car, tune in to the nearest electricity - broadcasting station and take off, silently and fumelessly.

Once this new electricity is perfected, the rest will be easy. You can't make me believe the power companies haven't got the ingenuity to develop a meter in your car that'll see that you're properly billed.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Doting Parents

Ethel, hesitant about marrying Fred, decided to put a blunt question to his mother and father.

"I love your son," she said, "but I have doubts about his health. Tell me frankly, is he well?"

They assured her that he was in perfect health. But, as they well knew, Fred was suffering from both tuberculosis and drug addiction. Ethel found out the truth shortly after the marriage, and promptly got an annulment.

But she did not stop there. She followed up with a damage suit against Fred's parents. Grounds: fraud.

At the trial, the parents claimed they could not be expected to make unpleasant disclosures about their own child. Nevertheless, the court held them liable. The judge said their deceit was too deliberate and too important to be excused.

This is an unusual case. But it illustrates that doting parents do not have an unlimited right to favor their child at someone else's expense.

A comparable situation arises when parents are accused not of unfairly pushing a marriage but of unfairly breaking one up. For example:

A mother was sued by her daughter-in-law for alienation of her son's affections. It seems that the mother had waged a relentless campaign against the marriage, not so much because she loved her son as because she hated his wife. The court decided this too was outside the parental privilege and ordered the mother to pay damages.

Of course, the law does give parents a considerable amount of freedom to speak their mind. In another case, a youthful husband who was having marital difficulties went to his father for a man-to-man talk. The father urged him to get a divorce, and he did.

Could the father be held liable by the divorced wife for alienation of affections? A court said he could not, because his interference was within the reasonable limits of a parent's role. As one judge put it:

"Times of stress naturally bring parent and child together for counsel and advice. This, the law does not condemn."

Our incredible journey
5½ miles beneath the surface of the earth.

We're going deep, deep, deep into the earth.

28,000 feet beneath the surface.

We're drilling a 5½-mile-deep well at the Anadarko Basin in Oklahoma. We are pioneers in drilling for gas at this great depth.

This well is just part of our continuing search for natural gas. We're continuing our search even though we already have an adequate supply to meet our customers' needs. We know we have a responsibility to look after the needs of the next generation.

What does this mean to you?

It means you'll have adequate gas energy for all your needs. It means we'll be able to operate at peak efficiency and keep your gas service reasonable. And we'll be able to support the growth of our service area. This will mean more jobs and more money. And a better life for all of us.

You might say we're going to great depths to stretch your dollar.

American Adults Deplore Elderly Generation Gap

COLLEGE STATION

Most American adults expect a generation gap with their children. But they don't expect one with their parents.

"The separation between middle - aged persons and their elderly parents is extreme in many cases," said Dorthy Taylor, family life education specialist at Texas A&M University. Its roots are as important as those of the separation with youth.

The separateness of parents and their married children often produces a great amount of guilt in the children, the specialist said.

Only two percent of married children have their parents living with them. So today, a whole industry is developing to house and nurse retired parents. Society is beginning to provide better housing, medical care and activities for the 20 million Americans over 55.

This, however, doesn't alleviate the guilt feelings of the middle-aged son or daughter who thinks he should take the parent into the home and spend more time with him, but who doesn't want to do so, the specialist noted.

"The reaction of the middle - aged person becomes compounded by a series of profound psychological reactions," Miss Taylor said. "A role reversal exists. As parents become older, they lose confidence in their own judgement; consequently they become dependent. The child then must become the parent. The need for suddenly growing dominat and authoritative often brings to the surface all the old hostilities that were generated for the 20 or so years when the parents were in control."

The son or daughter may also find it difficult to teach those whose primary role earlier was to teach them.

The time demand of an elderly parent often presents another strain for the child whose chief interests focus on his own family or work. To have to deal with those who have retired from life becomes troublesome to the child.

"The role reversal that occurs between the father and mother is often upsetting to the adult son or daughter," the specialist explained. "As the mother grows older she takes command, and becomes very demanding. The father no longer seems the strong, self - reliant person once depended upon. He has become retiring, submissive and gentle. He makes adaptations to life by adjusting to his inner self, and this annoys and confuses the adult child."

Resolving the guilt and being completely honest are the first steps toward saving the relationship. These come by acknowledging all the hostilities and hesitations felt toward the parent, the specialist said.

"Age is not honored in our society, and many sons and daughters contribute to their parents' loss of self-esteem," Miss Taylor said. "If you listen to them you can understand that they really do not ask much. If you share what you can realistically in time and life, life will be richer for them and for you. Again, the practice of compassion closes the gap."

Coastal Bermuda Grass Gains Popularity In Area

By Bill McCutcheon

A lot of grasses have come and gone in the last decade but coastal bermuda gains in popularity and acreage annually. Experiment stations can do a lot in determining the possibilities of a grass, but farmers ultimately prove or disprove them by usage.

Coastal has certainly gained farmer acceptance Franz Pittman of the local SCS office says there are an estimated 50,000 acres of Coastal in Milam County at present; and from the volume of people asking for assistance with sprigging it looks like 2,500 to 4,000 acres may be planted in 1972. Of course a lot will depend on the weather cooperating.

Douglas Buck, local ASCS office manager said that RE AP assistance on permanent pasture establishment has gone as high as 7,000 acres in 1968 to a low of about 1400 acres last year; with much of the drop due to drouth. REAP Practice A-2, establishment of permanent pasture includes establishment of quite a few grasses, but coastal establishment represents the majority.

In visiting with Eugene Arledge of Rockdale last week he indicated that he was sprigging more coastal in Milam County every year and this seems to be the case with other operators.

Coastal isn't without its problems. It takes a considerable investment in fertilizer to keep the protein level high enough for optimum livestock gains, and in the middle of the summer, animal gains usually come to a standstill even with lush looking pastures. Another problem with coastal is that it greens up late in the spring and is usually frost killed early in the fall.

When listing coastal's good points you would have to list ease of establishment in comparison with other grasses; its desirability in treating waterways and other critical areas; its high production and carrying capacity during the growing season; and the fact that it can be grown on almost any soil.

Years like 1971 make cattlemen more appreciative of coastal as it remained green during the drouth enabling many Milam County cattlemen to hang onto foundation stock while range cattle in much of Central and West Texas were being sold.

Couple thse factors with the fact that it won't winterkill and will stand abuse and heavy grazing without losing a stand and you can see why coastal is popular.

Prime coastal bermuda sprigging time is here. Sprigging during the dormant season is desirable. Custom operators are digging sprigs now and sprigging will continue as field conditions will allow.

If you are considering planting coastal bermuda I would urge you to carefully consider your needs before sprigging coastal. Unless you are going to harvest hay, plant only the costal acreage that you can fully utilize. Your best production from coastal comes when it is well fertilized and grazed rather heavy. After coastal gets tall quality deteriorates rapidly.

For a year around grazing program TAM Wintergreen Hardingrass, Kleingrass 75, or one of the Lovegrass selections can help fill in the forage production gaps that you would have with coastal bermuda only.

KLEINGRASS 75

Kleingrass 75 is another grass that is impressing Milam County producers who have it established. Kleingrass is a vigorous growing warm season perennial bunchgrass that is leafy, fine stemmed, and does not become woody at maturity. In McGregor tests, Kleingrass average 176 pounds of gain per acre compared to 131 pounds on coastal and 130 pounds for Johnsongrass.

In addition to being an excellent resistant summer grass it is also being used successfully for winter pasture.

B. E. Conrad of the Beeville Experiment Station says that they have been using Kleingrass 75 for several years for wintering stocker cattle. The program they have used is to let the late fall growth accumulate, turning in about November 1st and remaining on the pasture until March 1. The grass is fertilized in the fall in order to make sufficient growth before frost to support the animals during the winter. The program at Beeville has been a maintenance type, and without supplements the animals have shown a slight weight loss but remained in a thrifty condition. Conrad says that the grass would be better suited to mature animals during the winter.

Henry Abel of Rt. 1, Buckholts has also used Kleingrass 75 as a winter pasture with good success.

Kleingrass 75 should be planted about grain sorghum planting time on a good clean, firm seedbed at 1 pound PLS per acre in 30 to 40 inch rows or 2 to 3 pounds broadcast. Ideally the seed should be covered 1/2 inch and rolled or lightly packed behind planting.

Weed control is very important in stand establishment and it should not be grazed until plants are well established.

Be sure and don't plant the seed too deep. I've seen planting failures due to seed being planted too deeply. A firm seedbed with a half-inch covering of soil is deep enough.

TAM WINTERGREEN

Seedling TAM wintergreen Hardingrass plantings winterkilled or partially winterkilled can be replanted this month.

Many of the October and November plantings in Milam County were winterkilled or partially killed.

No additional land preparation is needed where the seedling grass was winterkilled. All that needs to be done is replant at the rate of 3 pounds of pure live seed per acre on a firm seedbed.

YEAR LONG FORAGE - Bell County landowners and ag workers study Milam County year long grazing programs used by Charles Hensley, Clyde Hensley and Lucian Kruse. These farmers are using Ermelo weeping lovegrass in a grazing program with coastal bermuda grass to get year long forage without hay. Standing left to right, A. J. Hall, Charles Hensley, Tom Messer, V. C. Russell and Clyde Hensley. Kneeling, from left, Carl Young, Chester Burnett and G. C Slough.

Minimum Tillage Cuts Soil Loss, Aids Wildlife

Texas farmers are plowing less and enjoying it more, thanks to a new conservation measure being pushed by the Soil Conservation Service.

As a result, there may be less dust in the air you breathe this winter and spring. Or less sediment in your city's water supply.

More moisture conservation, higher profits, more free time, and less soil loss are some of the benefits to farmers.

"All this is possible because of a new farming system called minimum tillage", Clyde W. Graham, state conservationist for SCS, explained. "With minimum tillage, crops are planted without prior land preparation. Weeds are controlled with herbicides. Since the land is not plowed, leaves and stalks from the previous crop are left on the soil surface as a protective cover during the fall, winter and early spring."

The surface cover is highly effective in preventing erosion. It breaks up the erosive effect of falling raindrops, letting them fall harmlessly onto the surface. The residues also protect the soil from windstorms.

Graham pointed out that erosion - produces sediment is our biggest water pollutant, muddying streams and filling natural channels and lakes. Reducing water and air pollution from erosion has vast environmental benefits, he said.

"And think what scattered seed and residues left on the surface do for wildlife," Graham said. "In some farming areas, wildlife is almost entirely dependent upon crop residues for food and cover needed for survival during the winter months. Dove, quail, geese, songbirds, deer, and other wildlife benefit from such practices.

"In fact, widespreas use of minimum tillage in Texas would be a great boost to our state's wildlife."

He emphasized that residues keep the soil cooler in the summer, warmer in the winter. They reduce evaporation, saving valuable soil moisture. The residues protect young seedlings. The cover also produces better soil tilth and it increases insoak.

"Farmers have reported eliminating many tractor trips across a field in one year with minimum tillage," Graham revealed. "With average farming operations costing at least $1.50 per acre, cutting out trips can mean big savings."

"The big reason for using minimum tillage is that it allows a farmer to do a superior job of conserving his soil and moisture," Graham stressed. "The fact that most farmers report higher profits is also significant. But the advantages from a soil and water conservation standpoint justify use of the system."

Graham said the Soil Conservation Service has published a new booklet "Minimum Tillage in Texas" which describes minimum tillage farming systems. To get a free copy, contact the nearest SCS office or write P.O. Box 648, Temple, Texas 76501.

Ag Committee Approves Bill

The House Committee on Agriculture has approved Rural Development legislation designed to improve the standard of living of millions of families throughout America on farms and in the smaller towns and communities.

Both Democrats and Republicans had joined Committee Chairman W. R. (Bob) Poage, D-Tex., in sponsoring the bill (H. R. 12931) and it was approved by a 32 to 4 vote.

Basically, the bill would broaden the credit services of the Farmers Home Administration (FHA), emphasize rural development, and give greater emphasis to community development and environmental aspects of the Small Watershed and Resource, Conservation and Development Programs of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. It would authorize for the first time aid to finance pollution abatement and control programs in rural areas.

The Committee last week voted to place a ceiling on the amount of money authorized for grants in the various programs administered by the FHA, reversing a still earlier tentative decision to lift any limitations in the amount of funds authorized to be appropriated for several existing grant programs and to authorize several new open-ended grant programs. These now finally - adopted provisions generally double the amount of money authorized for existing programs and place ceilings on new programs.

Poage called on his urban district colleagues for support of the bill, pointing out that the proposals should slow down or halt the migration of farm families to the cities, where so many have been forced on to relief rolls to survive.

Before taking the final vote the Committee considered several amendments which had not been acted on in earlier meetings. One of these, offered by Rep. John Kyl, R-Iowa, lowers from 10,000 to 5,500 the maximum population limit for size of communities eligible for assistance under programs authorized in the legislation. The amendment was adopted by a 17 to 4 vote. The Housing provisions of the Farmers Home Administration program, however, remain applicable to communities up to 10,000 population as specified in existing law.

The new pollution abatement and control programs in the bill carry a total of $75 million in annual authorization, and extend assistance in rural areas to public bodies, small businesses and farmers and ranchers. Livestock feedlot operators are seen as one of the principal participants in pollution abatement and control projects.

Another new program, carrying a $50 million annual grant authorization for public bodies is for Rural Economic Development work.

The legislation is entitled the "Rural Development Act of 1972."

Meeting Set For Brucellosis Queries For Recertification

Dr. Robert S. Pate with the Texas Animal Health Commission has announced that Milam County is due for re - certification as a Modified - certified Brucellosis free area in the near future.

In order to give producers an opportunity to visit with Dr. Pate on re - certification questions and the Brucelosis eradication program, a meeting has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m., February 23 at the First National Bank meeting room in Cameron.

In requesting the meeting and announcing the forthcoming re - certification, Pate said that there haven't been enough blood samples collected on Milam County slaughter cattle and therefore additional or supplemental testing will be necessary. He also stated that this retesting was necessary for the county to keep its present status; and that if the required number of cattle weren't tested the county would lose its status and the entire county would have to be retested.

In announcing the meeting, county Agent Bill McCutchen stated that in visiting with producers several questions on this program have come up. He emphasized that this is the time and place to air opinions and ask these questions of the people administering the program.

The meeting is open to all interested and will be particular interest to cattlemen and related agri-businesses.

If you're lucky, he may invite you in so you can see for yourself how it feels to be really warm...evenly warm, toes to nose...in gentle, quiet, clean, sunshine-like electric heat.

Neighbors who have it love it! And there are plenty of them—6 of every 10 new homes in TP&L territory are now all-electric with electric heating. And, more and more families in older homes are exchanging out-dated heating for the comfort of a modern, electric system.

Whether your home is new or long lived-in, there's an electric heating system for it. A TP&L heating specialist will help you choose. No cost or obligation. He'll gladly recommend Certified Electric Heating Dealers who can install it, too.

This Year, Plant the Proven, Dependable

Funk's G-522

GRAIN SORGHUM

MARVIN FINCH, Mertens—"I planted a small amount of G-522 four years ago. I liked it well enough that for the last three years I have planted my acreage to G-522. In 1972, I will also plant my grain crop to G-522. It is as good a hybrid as I can plant."

LOUIS JANDA, JR., Abbott—"I have planted G-522 for three years. It is a very dependable hybrid. I will plant part of my 1972 grain acres to G-522 along with Funk's G-393."

RAY LOVELESS, Milford—"I have planted G-522 for four years. It has consistently been the top performer for me. The yield has been excellent compared to other hybrids. Its standability and threshability is very good. It comes up good and grows off fast, and it's a money-maker."

These central Texas farmers planted Funk's G-522 during the past several years.

THEY LIKE G-522...
AND SO WILL YOU!

BOBBY ARMSTRONG, Barry—"Compared to a competitive, G-522 had a greener stalk and leaves during the drouth. It also was the highest yielding hybrid of the four varieties that we planted in 1971. G-522's standability was good compared to the other hybrids."

RONNIE LOVELESS, Irene—"I have used G-522 on part of my acreage for three years. In 1972, the majority of my grain acres will be G-522. I like the way G-522 stands up, yields and threshes."

EDMUND SEBESTA, JR., Somerville—"We averaged approximately 4,200 pounds on 26 acres. G-522 has been in a test on my farm for four years. It has consistently been the top yielding hybrid. I am well pleased with the total performance."

PRUNING PLANTS

Delay pruning freeze damaged plants until new growth starts, advises Everett Janne, Extension landscape horticulturist. New growth will pinpoint the dividing line between live and damaged tissue so you can tell where to cut without removing too much wood.

Western wood siding accepts most paints and stains. Surface should be clean and dry before application.

Program On Pollution Triggers Action Plan

A Civic Garden Club program on the pollution problem culminated in the forming of a committee to draw up plans for club members to begin action for a clear environment.

Mrs. Alvin Dusek was hostess for the Civic Garden Club meeting at her home on February 10 and the program "Our Environmental Challenge" was presented by Mrs. John Sapp.

Mrs. Sapp noted the two main sources of pollution were moving and stationary. She said forms of pollution most predominate are noise, water and air.

"Our pollution is a national, state and local problem," Mrs. Sapp commented, "but more has been done to remedy conditions when pressure by the public is applied." She said the most effective programs have been started by housewives.

During the business meeting, Mrs. Leo Fuchs, Club president, reported on the Chamber of Commerce sponsored industrial clinic held last week. She also reminded members of the Environmental Conference to be held at Texas A&M University February 27, 28 and 29. The meeting is open to the public at a small fee.

Refreshments were served to ten members and two guests, Mrs. Frances Hause Hudson and Mrs. Billy Cooper, from a table beautifully decorated in the Valentine theme.

Mrs. Hudson was accepted as a new member of the club.

Ecology In Spring Fashions

COLLEGE STATION

"Fashion projects the times, so let's return to nature," suggested Becky Dunlap, clothing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The acceptance of fashion depends upon, the directly relates to, our current society.

Ecology is the key word in spring fashion predictions and actual garments shown to retail buyers at the Dallas Apparel Mart," she noted.

"Through various combinations of patterns, colors and fabrics, a natural spring fashion look evolves."

Shapes and patterns conform to those of nature, whether through the use of accessories, prints, or appliques. Landscape florals, country gardens, mixed bouquets, animal forms and fruit and vegetable motifs abound.

"Fabrics are returning to the honest - to - goodness homespun look," she explained. Fresh ginghams, seersuckers, denims and piques are gaining dominance. Fabrics seem to come alive with soft and flowing movement.

Clear, bright and natural colors such as sand, grass green, sun yellow and poppy red dominate the spring fashion scene.

"The influence of nature and ecology now moves into fashion, restoring a cleaner, clearer and purer look than seen in recent years," the specialist said. "Designers have joined the bandwagon in support of the belief in preserving nature,"

Today's look is natural. Do you project the times?

ECOLOGY look of spring fashions is a keynote to the short version of THYA, Inc.'s "Chappies". Designer Mary Jo Stroup models a pair made of homespun look cotton and trimmed in a flower border.

Club Program Views Indian Arts, Crafts

Arts and crafts of Indians was the program for the Pleasure and Profit Club when it met with Miss Christine Laws Thursday, Feb. 10.

After serving hot tea, cake, cheese slices, party crackers, frosted strawberries, nuts, and pretzels, Miss Laws introduced Mrs. Ed Lehmann who presented the program.

Numerous pictures were shown to present the living environment of various Indian tribes. Mrs. Lehmann talked about the family life and how each family member made his contribution to the family craft.

As she presented different crafts, Mrs. Lehmann discussed the background and development of the handiwork. Her display included examples of jewelry, baskets, rugs, dolls, blankets, pottery and leatherwork. Of special interest was black pottery by Maria.

Mrs. Lehmann told about the tribe involved in making the craft like the turquoise jewelry by the Zuni Indians or the inlaid jewelry by the Hopi Indians. She explained how Indian jewelry signified wealth.

In showing Indian pottery to the group, Mrs. Lehmann described how the pottery was made.

One of the Indian customs mentioned was the wife's ownership of all property, that the husband left his family to go live with his wife.

During the business session a committee report on the McCullin Award nominee was given.

Special guests for the meeting were Mrs. Ed Lehmann and Mrs. Calvin Cobb.

Israel's Leaders Prepare For Rush Of Immigration

By Michael Arkus
Reuter Correspondent

JERUSALEM

Israel's leaders are preparing the nation psychologically for a large influx in immigration and the accompanying economic and social problems it will entail.

The average Israeli, struggling against a severe housing shortage, high taxes and low salaries, tends to have mixed feelings towards a new wave of immigrants.

While admitting that immigration is essential for the Jewish state's existance he often resents the housing and university priorities granted to the newcomers.

At one stage the Israeli "Black Panthers," a small group of Jews from Arab countries, mainly Morocco, who claim they are discriminated against, sharply criticized the granting of new flats to Soviet immigrants while they themselves were still crammed in overcrowded dwellings.

But in recent speeches Premier Golda Meir and her top cabinet colleagues have referred with awe to the growing flood of immigrants from the Soviet Union, whose persistent Jewish awareness they consider a virtual miracle after 50 years of anti-Zionist and atheistic education under communism.

The government also looks towards the United States and western Europe for more professionally trained dimmigrants, as well as to the republics of Latin America.

Mrs. Meir recently told a meeting of secondary school pupils that Israel was built on immigration and the ingathering of the Jewish people was its sole raison d etre.

"Are you asking us not to accept the Russian immigrants?" she suddenly asked her young audience. When they responded with shouts of "How should we receive ~~the~~?" the premier replied very firmly "with great joy" and stressed that immigration was the most important priority in Israel after security.

The national leaders publicly pray for even greater economic hardships if their cause is immigration.

Last year some 12,000 Soviet Jews immigrated to Israel -- more than four times as many as all those who came here in the 22 previous years since the foundation of the state.

South America is also seen as a possible source of mass immigration. Arye Pincus, Zionist executive chairman, has called on South America's 800,000 Jews to come here.

He called on the continent's Jewish leaders to "lead the community openly and unashamedly in the direction of the Zionist solution -- immigration at a time when immigration can be organised constructively and with care."

What final immigration figures are envisaged is not yet clear. According to Zionist principles, every Jew should come to Israel and there are an estimated 13,000,000 Jews in the world -- a far greater number than Israel could possibly absorb.

The country's first premier and elder statesman, David Ben Gurion, has called for immigration of between five and six million and says such a population could easily be absorbed.

-Israel Is Diamond Capital

By Susan Poyas
Reuter Correspondent

TEL AVIV

Not a single diamond has been mined in Israel, yet the country has established itself firmly as the diamond capital of the world.

Israel has become the worlds largest diamond salesman and developed its entire diamond industry by using imported rough stones.

Now two out of three diamonds anywhere in the world have been polished in Israel. Last year sales of the precious stones reached more than 265 million dollars according to Moshe Schnitzer, president of the World Federation of Diamond Bourses.

The polished diamond industry, expected this year to gross a record $300 million was established here by a small group of Jewish refugees, who escaped from Belgium and Holland during World War Two.

Their experitise, coupled with their far - flung business ties, accounted for the impressive success. In three decades Israel overtook Belgium in the sale of the sparkling stones, Schnitzer said.

Sitting in his office in the 28-storey Tel Aviv Diamond Exchange, the largest in the world, Schnitzer said:

"Prospects for the future seem rosy. Diamonds are no longer for the rich man only. They have become a popular item sold not only in expensive jewelry shops but also in department stores and through catalogues."

VALUABLE TUSKS

For the Small Namba people of Malekula Island in the New Hebrides, only tusker pigs can buy important things in life -- a wife, a higher grade in society, or instruction in rituals. When a male pig is a year old, its upper canine teeth are knocked out to permit lower tusks to grow in a graceful circle. The greater the tusks' curvature, the higher the pig's value, National Geographic says.

Germany's 1971 Vintage Called 'Wine Of Century'

By Bernard Melunsky
Reuter Correspondent

BONN

Tastings of West Germanys 1971 vintage have begun and experts are already classing it as a "wine of the century."

They say its balance of sweetness and natural acidity can be compared only with a handful of Germany's other great vintage years -- 1911, 1929, 1945, 1953 and 1959.

An exceptionally dry summer and other desirable climatic features combined to produce this "dream" blend. Summer sunshine was followed by some rain in autumn, then sun and mist encouraged the spread of a rare wine-enriching fungus-like mold known as edelfaul (noble rot.)

"One is very careful in talking about the wine of the century -- but in this case I almost feel I can do so," said Franz Michel, a director of the West German Stabilization Fund for Wine, set up by the government for marketing and sales purposes.

This holds true, experts say, for all West German vineyards, about 150,000 acres in area, mostly concentrated on steep hills which line the banks of the Rhine and Moselle rivers. Germany's Rhine wines and Moselles are among the most famous white wines in the world.

Adolf Huber, manager of the Weingut Ferdinand Pieroth, a large vineyard at Bingen beside the Rhine to the south of Koblenz, said the 1971 vintage had produced "a really great wine," although smaller than the previous year.

He thought it would be an especially good year in the more expensive quality ranges, but that there would be less wine available in the lower price ranges.

Michel said some of the wines were already on the market, but the better quality would only be auctioned by vineyards and cellars in about May and the very best wines were not likley to be on the market before Christmas.

They will be worth waiting for. "I'm sure people will talk about this vintage for years afterwards," commented Michel, a man not given to overstatement.

He said of the 1971 Rhine wine that he had tasted: "I certainly feel that the balance between sweetness and acidity is really excellent. I personally judge 1971 to be better than 1959 because the wine of that year was somewhat too dry -- more alcohol and sweetness, but not enough acidity -- compared with 1971."

Until now wines were classed without government control by the growers in terms indicating quality, such as spaetlese (late picked grapes), auslese (selected bunches), beerenauslese (selected grapes) and trockenbeerenauslese (selected overripe grapes).

Barnes Plans Whistle-stop Campaign

Three of the top stars from the world champion Dallas Cowboys will be aboard the Ben Barnes Victory Special when the Lieutenant Governor makes a three - day whistle - stop campaign tour of the state later this month in his bid for Governor.

Bob Lilly, Walt Garrison and Dan Reeves, all of whom had key roles in the Cowboy defeat of Miami in the Super Bowl earlier this year will be among the celebrities who will make the tour.

Barnes, with his wife, Nancy, plans approximately 30 stops in three days of train campaigning from Amarillo to Houston. The trip begins with a rally in the depot at Amarillo at 7:15 a.m. Feb. 22 and ends with a Houston rally late on Feb. 24.

"We are going to take this campaign right to the people and discuss the issues with them where we can look them in the eye," Barnes declared. The train will be made up of four cars plus the engine, and along some parts of the route it will be the first passenger train to run in several years. Overnight stops will be made in Brownwood and Temple.

Barnes said he was "extremely pleased" to have the support of Reeves, Garrison and Lilly. "Their presence on the train in support of my candidacy for Governor is a great thrill and Nancy and I are grateful," the Lieutenant Governor added.

Barnes will speak briefly at each point from the back platform of the train just as former President Harry Truman did in 1948 and former Governor John Connally did in 1962. Those were the last two "whistle - stop" train trips in Texas.

MOSCOW IS A WINTER FESTIVAL

During the winter, art gets star billing in Moscow. For the theatrical season is at its height, and the choice of theatrical productions—especially during the "Russian Winter" art festival—is big and varied.

Guests of the Festival will enjoy the Bolshoi Ballet, Moiseyev Folk Dance Company, Moscow Circus, Pyatnitsky State Russian Choir, Osipov State Russian Folk Orchestra, Omsk Folk Choir, and the "Beriozka" State Choreographic Ensemble.

The Soviet capital—where the relatively mild winter weather surprises many—is beautiful during this season and is an ideal place for Americans to spend their winter vacations. The Kremlin towers are powdered with snow, skaters glide over the glossy park alleys, and Moscow outskirts are a paradise for skiers.

Russian troikas rush along the broad valley, chasing wind and raising clouds of snow. As the bells ring, you will have the time of your life! You can also take a deer-sleigh ride.

The "Russian Winter" festival, which takes place from December 25 to January 5, coincides with New Year's parties. The Soviet people see the new year in with much gaiety. Foreign guests can reserve tables in the best restaurants of the capital. Music plays and dancing goes on all night where halls are decorated with fluffy New Year trees.

Intourist, the U.S.S.R. company for foreign travel, is ready to offer you its services and strive to make your stay a pleasure. Americans at the "Russian Winter" art festival are bound to consider their trip to Moscow a capital success.

For full information about travel in the Soviet Union, write to travel agencies representing Intourist in large cities or directly to Intourist, 45 East 49th Street, New York, N.Y. 10017.

When does a baby start to think?

Nobody knows, but thoughts come by association. Baby eagerly responds to the sight of a bottle. Experience proves that the bottle offers both satisfaction and comfort.

Because baby does learn by association, it is important that parents expand their children's horizons. A very small child will respond to a simple prayer. And a child of three will enjoy attending Church School geared for youngsters of that age.

Religious instruction and guidance is not only for the mature — it is needed regularly by everyone. The spiritual life of your child needs constant cultivation and the mind needs day by day development.

Many Chevrolet dealers are announcing the most complete warranty ever put on a used car.

Count your blessings.

First, you're protected where it counts most: on the major mechanical parts of the car you buy. And that lasts a healthy 30 days or 2000 miles, whichever comes first.

Second, you get special savings on any parts or labor you need. From the day you buy for 24 months.

Third, the special savings are good all across the country at most Chevrolet dealers. Say you're on a vacation trip and find you need service. You just get in touch with a participating Chevrolet dealership.

All you do is show an OK warranty identification card you receive when you buy your used car.

Your Chevrolet dealers' new OK warranty. It takes the guesswork out of used car buying.

Rep. Angly Speaks Here, Raps Treasurer James

State Rep. Maurice Angly, Jr., of Austin, the Republican Candidate for State Treasurer spoke in Cameron Tuesday morning at a reception at 104 South Houston.

Rep. Angly, the senior Republican member of the Texas House, discussed the role of the incumbent State Treasurer, Jessie James, in the "Stock Fraud Scandal".

"While Frank Sharp served as the banker who provided the financing through loans to Speaker Mutscher and the other politicians who 'played the market' in National Bankers Life Stock, State Treasurer James, by excessive transfers of State Deposits to Sharp's banks acted as the 'banker's banker' in the scandal," Angly said.

"During the months preceeding the loans by Sharp to the politicians involved Treasurer James pumped additional millions in state deposits into Frank Sharp's suburban bank, The Sharpstown State Bank, bringing state deposits at this bank to $10,034,875."

"As total deposits at this bank during this period were approximately $71 million, James' action resulted in highly preferential treatment as one out of every seven dollars on deposit with Sharp came from our State Treasury."

"While James' preferential treatment of Sharp's Bank was in and of itself an abuse of discretion, what is of more concern is his gross mismanagement of the deposits at this bank."

"Treasurer James deposited $6 million at the Sharpstown State Bank at 5% interest and left $4,034,875 with Sharp sitting around in an inactive checking account for over two years earning the people of Texas no interest whatsoever."

"When you consider that the average rate earned in the total deposit of over $10 million was only 2.93% at a time when James could and should have been earning 7% or more during this period of over two years. . . his preferential treatment of the Sharpstown State Bank cost the taxpayers over $1 million in lost revenue.

"While whether one State Treasurer has just grown lackadaisical about earning revenue on State Deposits or whether he had some secret deal with those involved in the scandal will probably never be known, in either case as taxpayers we have to pay for his mismanagement of the Treasury with higher taxes to make up for this lost revenue."

Rep. Angly concluded by stating that as State Treasurer he intended to implement, "sound business like management of our State Deposits to bring an end to this sort of revenue loss."

Rural Rental Housing Loans Available From FHA

The Farmers Home Administration makes loans in rural areas to provide rental housing for persons with low and moderate income and for persons who have reached 62. Rural areas include open country and places of not more than 10,000 population which are rural in character and not closely associated with urban areas.

Applications are processed without regard to race, color, creed or national origin.

RRH loan funds may be used by a borrower to build, buy or repair apartment type housing, usually constructed on the style of a duplex or similar multi-unit dwelling of four or eight units.

Funds may be used to buy and improve the land on which the buildings are to be located; supply appropriate recreation and service facilities; provide water, waste disposal, heat and light systems; provide lawn seeding, shrubbery, tree plantings or landscaping and other measures that beautify the housing and make it an attractive addition to the community.

Loans may not be made for housing which is elaborate or extravagant in size, design, or cost or for nursing, special care or institutional types of homes.

Rental housing loans are available to profit and nonprofit applicants such as individuals, trusts, associations, partnerships, cooperatives and corporations, including municipal corporations. Borrowers must be unable to finance the housing or the improvements with personal resources or credit from other sources, and must agree to provide rental units or units for cooperative purchase to eligible individuals or families.

Borrowers must also possess the character, ability and experience to meet loan obligations.

Rental housing units can be occupied by families and individuals with low and moderate incomes and persons who have reached age 62. The maximum income level for occupancy by persons other than those who have reached 62 will be established by the Farmers Home Administration. Occupants will not be discriminated against because of race, color, creed or national origin.

The maximum repayment period on an RRH loan is 50 years. Loans made to individuals and profit organizations presently bear an interest rate of 7 1/4 percent. Private nonprofit organizations may qualify for reduced interest rates. The maximum size loan that any borrower may receive is $750,000. When the financial position of the borrower improves to the point that he can repay or refinance through a commercial lender, the loan contract provides he shall do so.

The eligibility of an RRH borrower is determined by a local committee which is made up of the county supervisor and a three member local committee.

The planning and development of rental projects must be completed in accordance with applicable local building codes and ordinances. For larger projects, the applicant must provide complete architectural services. The architectural requirements may be waived for small projects only when adequate professional plans, specifications, and site plans are available.

The Farmers Home Administration reviews the plans and inspects the construction as it progresses to help the borrower obtain sound and acceptable housing. Loan funds will be disbursed under Farmers Home Administration supervision. The borrower must wait until the loan is closed before construction commences.

Rental housing projects should be located on a desirable site within the residential area of a town or community. All facilities such as water, sewage, electricity, etc. should be located at the site location. The streets, water and sewage disposal systems must meet FHA requirements.

Applicants wishing to bring this type of housing into their communities should contact their local county's Farmers Home Administration supervisor. He has the information and material needed to start the application process. The local representative for Milam County is Henry N. Ivey. The Milam Co., FHA office address is 102 W 1st, Cameron.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Form 1040 U.S. Individual Income Tax Return for the year Jan. 1-Dec. 31, 1966, or other taxable year beginning ..., 1966, ending ... U.S. Treasury Department

This column of questions and answers on Federal tax matters is provided by the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequentiy asked by taxpayers.

Q - What effect will the new tax law have on the amount of tax withheld from my paycheck in 1972?

A - As a result of changes in the withholding system for 1972, single employees earning up to $25,000 a year and married employees, whose spouses are not employed, with earnings up to $31,000 a year, can generally expect to have their full tax withheld. Wae earners should determine if it is necessary to file a new withholding exemption certificate (Form W-4) to avoid overwithholding and unnecessary reductions in take-home pay. Specifically, employees should (1) claim all the withholding exemptions to which they are entitled, (2) claim the new "special withholding allowance" if single and earning $25,000 or less or if married and earning $31,000 or less (allowance may not be claimed by either husband or wife when both are employed or by an employee who has two or more concurrent jobs), and (3) claim the "additional withholding allowances" shown on the back of Form W-4 if their itemized deductions are substantially larger than the standard deduction.

Q - I was out on strike last spring. Do I have to pay tax on the strike benefits I received then?

A - Yes, strike benefits are taxable, unless the facts clearly show they were intended as a gift. See IRS Publication 525, "Taxable Income and Nontaxable Income," for complete information. It is available free at your local IRS office.

Q - What transportation expenses are deductible that are not business related?

A - You may deduct as a charitable contribution unreimbursed out - of - pocket transportation expenses directly attributable to services you render to a charitable organization. If you use your own car, instead of actual expenses you may use the rate of six cents per mile to determine your deductions. Under this method, parking fees and tolls are deductible in addition to the six cents per mile. Depreciation and insurance are not deductible in either case.

Transportation expenses necessary to get medical care are also deductible in the same way. However, these expenses are subject to the three percent rule for medical expenses.

Transportation expenses in connection with moving may also be deductible. Details can be found in IRS Publication 521, "Tax Information on Moving Expenses," available at local IRS offices.

Q - Have there been any changes in the Social Security Tax rate for 1972?

A - No. The rate remains at 5.2 percent for both employers and employees. However, the maximum amount of wages subject to Social Security Tax has been increased to $9,000 for wages paid in 1972.

Q - How much is the percentage standard deduction this year?

A - For a single person or a married couple filing jointly, the standard deduction is 13 percent of adjusted gross income up to a maximum deduction of $1,500 ($750 in the case of a married person filing separately). Thus, if the adjusted gross income is $11,000 and the standard deduction is taken, that deduction would be 13 percent of $11,000 or $1,430. If the adjusted gross income is $16,000, the standard deduction would be the maximum of $1,500 since 13 percent of $16,000 is $2,080.

Q - Where can I get information on the tax obligations of operating a business?

A - Contact your IRS district office for a copy of "Tax Guide for Small Business." This 160 - page booklet, which costs only 75 cents, will aid you in finding the answers to tax questions that aris in starting, operating and disposing of a business. This publication is also available at first - and second - class post offices.

Badgerette Hopes Topple

Lorena ran off with a 48-33 win over the Buckholts Badgerettes in a girls Class B bi-district game Monday night in Temple.

Linda Marek got 17 points for Buckholts while Becky Hamrs topped Lorena with 17 points.

The same two teams played in last year's bi-district round with Lorena winning that one as well.

SAFETY AND TIRES
IN 1900, THE AVERAGE MOTORIST COULD EXPECT TO TRAVEL 10 MILES BEFORE SOME REPAIR WAS NEEDED. TIRES OF THE DAY WERE MADE OF CANVAS COVERED BY RUBBER AND HAD A LIFE EXPECTANCY OF 1000 MILES.
IT WASN'T UNTIL 1915 THAT WHEELS ON MOST CARS COULD BE REMOVED TO CHANGE THE TIRE, AND ONE OF THE FIRST SAFETY DEVICES ... BUMPERS ... WERE MADE AVAILABLE IN 1922.
STOP
TODAY, SAFETY FEATURES AND LONG LASTING TIRES HAVE BECOME COMMONPLACE. TIRES BELTED WITH FIBERGLAS CORD WITH A 40,000 MILE LIFE EXPECTANCY HAVE BECOME STANDARD IN THE AUTOMOTIVE INDUSTRY AND ARE CONSIDERED ONE OF THE MAJOR SAFETY DEVICES.

New Texas Highway Map Shows New Lakes, Parks

AUSTIN

Gleaming new stretches of Interstate highways, more miles of four - lane divided facilities, several new lakes and a new National park make this year's 1972 Official Highway Travel Map better than ever.

This year's map includes the addition of Lake Fairfield in Freestone County and Decker Lake in Travis County. Lake Palestine, located in Henderson, Smith, Cherokee and Anderson Counties, has been on the map for several years. This year, however, the water impoundment has been enlarged considerably.

The new map reflects construction, realignment and improvement of many types of highway facilities in the State - maintained system.

The publication shows that about 130 miles of Interstate highways have been added to the State's highway network. Texas now has 2,922 miles of Interstate highways open to traffic. When the national Interstate system is complete, Texas will have 3,176 miles of IH routes.

The free map, published by the Texas Highway Department, is a perennial favorite with Texas motorists. Projections for 1972 call for distribution as high as 1.4 million.

Copies of the 1972 Official Highway Travel Map are available at Highway Department Tourist Bureaus and a Department district offices. The map is one of the most popular of the more than 7.3 million pieces of travel - oriented literature distributed each year by the Texas Highway Department.

The map may also be ordered directly by sending name, address and ZIP code to Texas Highway Department, Travel and Information Division, P. O. Box 5064, Austin, Texas 78763.
